MEDIA RELEASE

T2 Systems Named Microsoft Gold Certified Partner

Partnership demonstrates "highest level of competence and expertise with Microsoft technologies."

(INDIANAPOLIS, IND.— April 1, 2009) T2 Systems Inc. is pleased to announce that it is now a Microsoft Gold Certified Partner. The Microsoft Partner Program is a worldwide network designed to help companies build mutually-beneficial relationships and leverage technology to benefit their customers. The Gold Certified Partner level is the highest level possible and gives members "the closest working relationship with Microsoft."

The Microsoft Partner Program is designed for businesses whose primary function is to sell, service, support and build solutions on the Microsoft platform, or to provide solutions based on Microsoft products and technologies to third-party customers. Levels of partnership are based on "Partner Points" which are awarded based on activities related to developing technology, sales performance, as well as servicing, supporting and training customers. T2 has earned enough points to achieve the highest level of partnership possible.

"Although this is an honor for T2 Systems, our participation in this program really benefits our customers," said Mike Simmons, T2's President and CEO. "This partnership will enable us to access technical information and expertise that will ultimately enhance our product development efforts. Our solutions will continue to become more robust and reliable as a result."

Microsoft Gold Certified Partners have demonstrated the highest degree of expertise in working with Microsoft technologies and will have the opportunity to build the closest working relationship with Microsoft. This partnership also gives T2 access to additional technical resources and support, as well as a Partner Knowledge Base and other resources that it didn't have before.

"We look forward to realizing all of the benefits that this partnership offers," said Simmons. "Our Product Development team can now take advantage of resources that will be used to enhance and expand our current portfolio of parking solutions."

The T2 Flex parking management system is a complete parking management system, the first in the industry to manage all aspects of parking: citations, permits, event parking, as well access and revenue control. T2 Flex is a web-based solution built using Microsoft technologies. The system is essentially an extensible platform on which new solutions can be added, enabling parking operations to expand their solution as the needs of their organizations grow.
