T2 Systems Introduces PermitNow - a Parking Software Solution for Large Events

(INDIANAPOLIS, IND.— July 1, 2008) T2 Systems Inc. announces the availability of PermitNow, a new software solution designed for event parking management. PermitNow is ideal for organizations and venues that manage parking for large events such as concerts, sporting events, or other activities that typically draw a large number of parkers.

PermitNow enables better management of revenue from events by instituting revenue control where parking gates can't go. It manages permit parking, tracks parking transactions, and the reporting options track the amount and type of revenue generated by each cashier for each transaction. Managers can also audit cashier activity using lot counts generated by the software.

Parker convenience is maintained because the easy-to-use handheld software enables permits to be issued in under eight seconds. Multiple payment methods are accepted including credit cards, debit cards, cash and check. In addition, e-commerce opportunities allow organizations to pre-sell event parking online, or offer reserve parking for easy access on the day of the event.

PermitNow provides the ability to track occupancy in real-time for each lot during the event; now operators can see which lots are filling up and where parkers need to be directed. Users can also identify peak traffic times and the most popular events.

Along with the ability to customize the solution for each event, PermitNow automates revenue reconciliation after each event and keeps event staff accountable for the revenue they generate.

For current T2 customers with gates, PermitNow is part of the T2 Flex unified system and integrates event parking with other parking management areas including access and revenue control, permit management and enforcement.
